Cedar Point home leveled by night fire

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Nine Gulf Coast area fire departments responded to the fire Tuesday night which destroyed the home Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rietch at 104 Cedar Ridge Rd.

Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana said although firefighters were on the scene within minutes the fire had a good start before the first fire truck arrived.

According to Lizana, fire departments from Long Beach, Pass Christian, Waveland, BaySide Park, Diamondhead, and East Hancock responded with mutual aid.

Lizana added that the first truck to get to the scene was able to partially halt the fire but before the second truck arrived the fire had caught back up.

It took firefighters nearly two hours to get control of the fire which swept through the two-story wood-frame house.

Also destroyed was a large storage room and garage which was connected to the house with a porch.

A savings account for the Rietches has been set up at Merchants Bank and anyone wishing to donate should contact the bank.

Citizens request slot machines seized in raids be destroyed

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
A request by Bay St. Louis' mayor seeking authority to sell slot machines seized in recent gambling raids was turned down by the city council Tuesday night.

Mayor Victor Franckiewicz asked the council to pass a resolution requesting the state legislature to pass a local and private bill which would enable the city to sell the 24 slot machines seized in January at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3253 and the Disabled Veterans Post 50.

Franckiewicz told the council the machines could be worth several thousand dollars to the city and thought it would be worthwhile to try and sell them rather than spend money to have them destroyed.

There are 58 dealers in Nevada who the federal government would allow to bid on the machines, he added.

Franckiewicz also reported that both Senator Gene Taylor and Representative Walter J. Phillips had agreed to introduce the bill in the state legislature.

Councilman Charles Johnson asked Franckiewicz if what he was recommending was legal.

"Selling the machines in states where gambling is legal is not encouraging a illegal habit," Franckiewicz said.

He also said the state legislature could as easily pass a law to allow the sale of the machines as they had passed the law to destroy them.

"Personally, I hate to see an asset sent down the tubes," Franckiewicz added.

He also told the council that Jackson County which seized 137 slot machines in gambling raids is also seeking authority to sell the machines.

Councilman John Wilkerson said that since the law states the machines will be destroyed he would not be in favor of selling them.

"I do not think we should try to circumvent the law," he added.

Councilman Lisa Coward recommended that the council hear from

County to fund percentage of emergency beach repair

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has accepted a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers proposal providing $250,000 in emergency funding for beachfront repair.

The board approved putting up 25 percent of the $250,000 in matching funds for the project, but delayed until March 13 a decision on whether to enter an agreement with the Corps for a two-year study for a long-range reconstruction project.

By the March 13 meeting, the supervisors expect to have obtained a state attorney general's opinion on whether the county can use seawall tax funds, presently diverted to pay bonds for the industrial park at Port Bienville, for matching money.

According to Corps Representatives Robert Martin and Roger Burke, both of the Mobile, Ala., district, the federal government will provide 100 percent of the funding for a study on the type of repairs for which the $250,000 will be used.

The two presented the proposal Monday at a meeting with the supervisors and representatives of South Mississippi Planning and Development District, Gulf Regional Planning Commission and the Hancock County Beachfront Technical Advisory Committee.

According to Martin, the project would cover only a small amount of the problem with the deteriorating beachfront.

He and Burke had visually inspected the shoreline before the meeting and had found numerous problems threatening Beach Road and the shoreline, including sinkholes, voids under pavement, exposed sheet piling behind deteriorated seawalls and generalized erosion of the sand berm.

Martin explained that the county's matching funds could consist partially of in-kind services.

However, work done on Beach Road shortly after Hurricane Juan, including a section of paving for which the county must repay the city of Waveland, will probably not be eligible as matching funds.

According to Gulf Regional Planning Commission Director James Head, who will serve as local administrator for the emergency project, the first actual funding available for the emergency study should be available in October.

The Corps proposal for participation in a two-year study for a long-range reconstruction project on the beachfront will probably also include the road.

The matching funds would be $77,000 the first year and $65,000 the second year.

The study is expected to end in a reconstruction project of $10 to $12 million.

Unlike the emergency study, funding must be appropriated by Congress for each year of the study.

Neither Martin nor Burke was able to provide the supervisors with any guarantee that the funding for the long-range project will be approved after the study is completed.

Both expressed certainty that a feasible reconstruction project can and needs to be developed.

Martin said a reconnaissance study, which consists mostly of visual inspections and surveys, was recently completed and shows that the condition of the beach is "terrible."

Burke added that the Corps had originally considered replacing the beach as it originally was, but instead is now planning to coordinate with a master plan developed by the Hancock County Beachfront Technical Advisory Council.

That plan calls for the replacement of the beach in sections which have traditionally been used for recreation, such as the area in front of Buccaneer State Park, and

Infant dies in 603 crash

BY DENA BISNETTE

A three-month-old baby has become the most recent fatality on Hwy. 603 in Hancock County.

Jessie R. Landrum of Hattiesburg was killed at about 6 a.m. Sunday when the 1984 Mazda in which his family was riding crashed in a one-vehicle accident about three miles north of Kiln.

Injured were the driver, Tommy L. Landrum Jr., 22; Cindy Landrum, 21; and Tommy L. Landrum III, 3, all of Hattiesburg.

A spokesman for Memorial Hospital in Gulfport said both adults suffered fractures and remained hospitalized in stable condition Wednesday afternoon.

Tommy L. Landrum III was treated at Memorial but was reportedly no longer hospitalized there.

The cause of the one-vehicle accident is being investigated by State Trooper Tony Greer.

Site preparations underway on $2 million development

Two Bay St. Louis men report they will spend $2 million developing a new subdivision in the city.

David A. Treutel, financial and insurance executive, and Ronald J. Artigues, developer-builder, said Wednesday they are collaborating on development of a 116-lot subdivision off Beyer Drive between the Bay High practice fields and the Bay Little League Ball Field.

"This development will have a tremendous impact on the economy of our area with projected property taxes after completion expected to bring in well over $100,000 per year to Bay St. Louis and Hancock County," Treutel said.

Sites will include all improvements at no cost to the taxpayer, he added.

Described by the developers as "urban living in a rural setting", the subdivision will be called The Woods and will offer controlled restrictive covenants, cul de sac streets, high elevations, concrete curbs and sidewalks, and underground electrical, telephone and cable.

"This project brings a significant addition to the growth of Bay St. Louis as it will occupy one of the last major residential areas in the city," said Artigues.

The Woods is a joint venture by Artigues - Development and Homestead Investment, a subsidiary of Peoples Federal Savings and Loan Association in Bay St. Louis. Treutel is also president of the association.

Site preparations are already underway, the developers reported.

Councilman Lisa Coward recommended that the council hear from the area residents at the meeting.

Approximately 20 area residents addressed the council on the matter, with the majority stating they believed the machines should be destroyed.

"If the machines are sold it looks like the city is raiding to make a profit, not to catch criminals," one resident said.

Following a lengthy discussion and no action by the council, Chairman Wilmer Seymour stated that the recommendation died for the lack of a motion and that the machines will be destroyed.

Franckiewicz said Wednesday he did not know when the machines would be destroyed.

"It will be done when the workload permits, but this is not a priority item," he added.

New owner sought for Ulman facility

Insurance cancellation closes pier

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock County is looking for a civic group to take over ownership of the Ulman Avenue Pier and has temporarily closed the facility.

The insurance for the pier, a public facility presently owned and maintained by the county, has been cancelled.

Liability insurance had been provided through Hancock Insurance Agency but has been cancelled.

because the firm providing the coverage is no longer handling municipal liability accounts, Chancery Clerk Michael Necaise said.

Necaise said it is possible the county could retain ownership if insurance can be obtained, but that the board would prefer to give the pier to a civic group.

The board of supervisors is worried that the county could be held liable if someone is injured on the uninsured pier, Board President A.A. Kellar said.

He cited a case in which the city of Bay St. Louis was sued for damages after an individual was injured on the pier.

The city was forced to levy additional sales tax to pay off the judgement.

He said courts have generally tended recently to rule against cities and counties and have ordered payment of large damage awards, leading insurance companies to stop insuring municipalities or to raise premiums.

A civic organization like Veterans of Foreign Wars would have a better chance of obtaining insurance for the pier, Kellar said.

Necaise was authorized to try to find another owner for the pier.

Beat Five workers placed barricades and signs were placed at the pier entrance Tuesday to bar fishermen and others from entering.

The pier is a popular gathering place for young people in the evenings, and attracts large numbers of fishermen during daylight and evening hours.

Speckled trout and redfish are expected to move into the Mississippi Sound shoreline areas before the end of this month, making the pier closing even more painful to fishermen awaiting arrival of the Spring season.

Budget to determine 603 four-laning issue

BY DENA BISNETTE

Whether or not Hwy. 603 will be four-laned depends on what the state decides to do to the State Highway Department's budget.

According to Southern District Highway Commissioner Bob Joiner, turning lanes requested by the board of supervisors will be installed and the road shoulders will be paved, but any additional work will have to wait until the department finds out how extensive state budget cuts will be.

On Monday, the day after an accident on 603 that killed a three-month-old infant, Joiner met with the board to tell them part of their request has been granted.

Two additional turning lanes for Lagan and Tigris Streets were requested. Tigris may be included in the current project if right-of-way can be obtained but Lagan Street may have to wait, the commissioner said.

Road shoulders will be paved on both sides to increase the safety of the highway, he added.

"We are very concerned about the increased traffic on Hwy. 603," Joiner said.

He said he has been able to work the preliminary engineering for four-laning 603 from the US-90 junction in Waveland to Interstate 10, but that does not mean that four-laning can actually take place.

The State Highway Department has lost $21 million in current state budget cuts and $7 million from cuts that have filtered down from the Federal Highway Department.

"We do not know where the cutting is going to end. What the press is not saying is that they cut us $14 million in 1984 when nobody else was getting cut," Joiner said.

He added that he had been informed by a member of Governor William Allain's staff that the department will probably lose another $22 million.

"If you want 603, talk to your legislators. We can't do anymore than you can do in your beat without that funding," he told the supervisors.

If funding can be found, preparations for four-laning follow a very time consuming process, the commissioner explained.

First, federal approval is needed for the location of the project and intent to work on the highway must be advertised.

If the advertisement results in a request for a public hearing, there is a requirement of a five-week wait before that hearing can be held.

Land ownership maps must be obtained and acquisition of rights-of-way completed, then the final design must be completed for presentation at a public hearing and final approval by the Federal Highway Department.

Joiner added that there is also a possibility, if funding is available and 603 is four-laned from US-90 to I-10, that a second phase may be added to the project later.

The board has asked that the second phase, if possible, extend the four-laned part of 603 from the 5.3 miles between US-90 and I-10 to the junction of Hwy. 48, but Joiner said the distance of the extension will depend on traffic counts.

Joiner said the turning lanes will probably be completed this week or next week, depending on weather conditions.

In addition, Joiner reported that work has also started on a problem area in West Harrison County, the intersection of US-90 and Bay View Drive at the foot of the overpass on Henderson Point.

Additional markers have been placed at the intersection to make it more visible, particularly in darkness, and a sign has been placed on the median to prevent motorists from entering incorrect lanes.

The highway department also has plans to extend some of the turning bays to prevent traffic from backing up on the overpass.

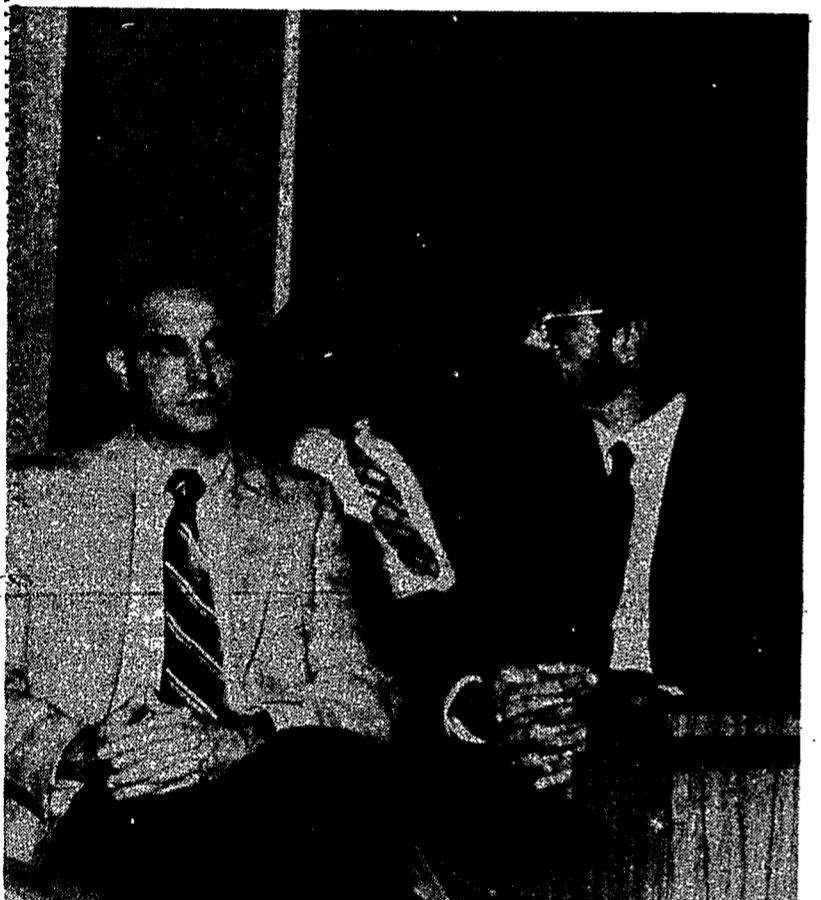

A signal light was rejected as a possibility because the department feels having traffic stop at the foot of the overpass would be hazardous, Joiner said.

Waveland to clarify burning regulations

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen has approved a proposal clarifying restrictions on controlled burning in the city.

In Waveland, burning trash, debris or other material is illegal unless a permit has been obtained from the fire department.

Some substances should not be burned because they are potentially dangerous, particularly those which may give off toxic fumes, but the ordinance does not specify what those substances include, according to Alderman Louis Smolensky.

The alderman requested that a list of those substances be compiled and attached to all burning permits provided by the city.

Smolensky made the proposal Tuesday night after commanding recently appointed Fire Chief David Garcia for stopping a resident from burning dangerous substances, which include many common items like tires.

The resident reportedly had obtained a burning permit but had never actually been told what substances were illegal to burn.

Garcia was authorized to compile the list for attachment to the permits.

Mayor John Longo Jr. pointed out that the season during which most controlled burning is done is approaching and said the city plans to obtain newspaper advertisements reminding residents that permits must be obtained.

In other business, the board:

- Presented a plaque to Carl Wilcox for his service to the local Boy Scout program;
- Authorized engineer Ray Eaton to look into a complaint of a drainage problem at the intersection of Lizzana Lane and Edwards Street, both recently paved; and Approved authorizing Mississippi Power Company to begin work on lights along Beach Boulevard.

The board meets again March 19 at 7:30 p.m.

The gnats are out, and residents are complaining about the pesty critters.

Every year, when it is time to begin a garden and one starts to do some weed pulling, gnats appear to come at you from all directions.

I know there are many who are beginning to set out tomato plants, and they are taking a chance unless they have a way of protecting them, in case we have another frost.

Many of the area fruit trees are in bloom, yet the pecan trees I have checked are still dormant.

The old timers say, when pecan trees begin to bud frost is over as Spring is here.

Things are being geared up by the Waveland Civic Association for the annual St. Patrick's Day Parade, scheduled for Saturday, March 15.

Jimmy Lagasse, president of the Waveland Civic Association reports one of this year's featured marching groups will be the 'Friendly Sons of St. Patrick' from Mobile.

It is our understanding the group consists of 150 marchers.

The Grand Marshall for the parade will be announced this Saturday night at the annual banquet to be held at the American Legion Hall in Waveland.

If you haven't gotten your tickets, it is too late, because Lagasse reports they are sold out for the ball.

Individuals or groups wishing to enter floats or marchers in the parade may contact Lagasse at 467-4997 or David Garcia, 467-6463.

We will be telling you more next week about the parade.

It is a shame to see the Ulman Avenue Pier boarded up this week because of a lack of liability insurance.

The pier was just restored from damages by Hurricanes Elena and Juan and now has to be closed.

The pier is used by so many of our residents for fishing, and we are hoping something can be worked out so it will again be open.

It is our understanding the Board of Supervisors had coverage through a local agency representing a national insurance company on the pier. The national agency just upped and canceled the coverage.

So our Board of Supervisors had to no choice but to close the pier.

We are hoping there will be some way an insurance coverage can be acquired on the Ulman Avenue Pier, as the good fishing season is fast approaching.

There has been a lot of discussions in our Mississippi Legislature on the shortage of funds.

The Mississippi Highway Patrol appears to be on the verge of a severe curbing of services if the 22 per cent cut in their budget goes into effect.

Last year, the Highway Patrol had to make two five per cent cuts, according to Tom Daniels, public information officer.

Daniels has been busy in the county telling the effect an additional 22 per cent cut would do to the department.

The Legislators need to take a very hard look before they cut the Highway Patrol's budget, because if the cut is made, it will be felt in the pocketbook of every resident in the state of Mississippi; this in addition to an increase in the fatalities on our highways.

We need not mention the already high number of fatalities on highways in Hancock County.

Lott recognized for efforts to cut Federal spending

Congressman Trent Lott has been awarded the 1985 Golden Bulldog Award by the Watchdogs of the Treasury, Inc., for his voting efforts in the House of Representatives to cut federal spending, eliminate waste and reduce the deficit.

James Morrill, director of Federal Government Relations for Scott Paper Company, presented the award to the Congressman. It is his third "Bulldog" during the seven terms he has served in the Congress.

The award is made to those members of Congress who vote for fiscal responsibility in government at least 75 percent of the time, based on a compilation of selected votes on economic and fiscal issues published in the "Economy Voting Record."

According to Morrill, this year's Bulldog awards presentation commends those members of Congress who have taken an active role in reducing the federal budget deficit.

Watchdogs of the Treasury is a Washington, D.C.-based nonpartisan organization whose award for fiscal integrity in government is presented annually.

"We are fortunate to have Scott's Hattiesburg plant and Mississippi woodlands represented by such a highly respected and capable leader as Congressman Lott in the U.S. House. His record on federal deficit reduction is only one example of his commitment to restoring a sound economic climate," Morrill said.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

Lawmakers could walk off, leaving a monumental disaster behind them

JACKSON—Is this Bill Allain, the populist, who scared the daylights out of the corporate interests when he was elected governor in 1983?

Lately Allain has been sounding more like Ronald Reagan than a populist Democrat. Like Reagan, Allain is against any tax increase despite a huge revenue shortfall. But he says we can come out with a budget which won't hurt major programs if careful fiscal surgery is performed.

Allain's chief defense of his no-tax stance is that any increase would scare away industry. He charges that the fractional increase ($\frac{1}{2}$ of 1 percent) in the sales tax on industrial machinery enacted over his veto last year caused International Paper Co. to terminate 400 jobs at its Natchez plant. (Insiders in the pulp industry say this is hogwash.)

Instead of shifting more of the tax burden on the corporations, as any populist would be expected to do, Allain has taken up the cause of corporate interests which pay only one-third of state income taxes currently.

It may all be a ploy to confuse his enemies. At the moment, however, he is also confusing his friends around the state Legislature.

His grand plan which Allain came forward with last week, 51 days after the 1986 session began, proposed ways to carve $80.8 million from somewhere in state government to fill the latest drop in anticipated tax revenues next fiscal year starting July 1, 1986.

Allain's plan to ease the pressure on the state budget is similar to what Reagan has been doing: shifting the burden for certain services to the next level of government.

While Reagan is pushing more of the cost of programs from the federal to the state level, Allain proposes to shift from the state to the local governments part of the cost of operating junior colleges, and the total cost of the four state charity hospitals.

Another similarity between the Allain and Reagan approaches to the fiscal crisis is to shift some programs to private funding.

Allain's proposal to abandon state funding for Public Radio of Mississippi to support from the private sector found immediate negative response in the House where two-thirds of the members voted to keep PRM in the budget.

Although his plan has no broad support in the Legislature as a solution to the massive financial problems, Allain has certainly made it more difficult to get a significant tax hike through this session.

In reality, legislative fiscal leaders admit, it would take a $150 to $200 million tax increase to maintain state services at a minimum acceptable level. Such an increase now appears impossible, certainly not likely to be sustained over the governor's veto.

Opposition to taxes in the Legislature comes from three sources:

1. Those who are not willing to take the political risk.
2. Those who believe the people can't stand any additional taxes, and
3. A new group—its size yet unknown—who see it as a way to bring about major reforms in the way money is allocated by the state.

The third group believes no additional revenues should be put into the system until spending priorities are installed, less essential programs are eliminated and consolidations (principally in higher education) is brought about.

The third group has positive points which cannot be disputed. However, the grave danger with the latter position is the patient may die on the operating table before successful surgery can be performed.

That's exactly the danger higher education, mental health, Medicaid, public safety, public health and some other major services now face. All, with the possible exception of Medicaid, have been grossly underfunded the past three years, and now they face catastrophic cuts from which it would take years to recover.

Already, with the $73 million mid-year cuts in appropriations made in November and January because of declining revenues, state agencies and institutions have seen $325 million appropriated over the last four years taken away from them.

As a consequence, there's hardly any meat left on the bones of most state programs, much less any fat. Now, they face $114 million more in cuts next year if no new money is forthcoming for the state treasury.

If you gave the average Mississippian a choice of having his taxes raised, or not, he would of course respond with a resounding "No."

But if you ask him if he wants his child to go to a third-rate university, or for Grandma to be put out of the nursing home, or Aunt Minnie sent home from the mental institution, he will again utter a loud "No."

Right now, there's a no-man's-land at the State Capitol on which of those two choices Mississippians will be given.

For sure, the 1986 legislative session won't end as scheduled April 6.

Unless lawmakers walk off, leaving a monumental disaster behind them.

THE PURSUIT OF DEMOCRATIC IDEAS

Americans watched intently the transition of power in the Philippines from Ferdinand Marcos to Corazon Aquino. It was a remarkable demonstration of what men and women committed to democratic ideas can achieve.

Weeks earlier, we witnessed a similar exercise in Haiti where another dictator was deposed because of his oppressive policies.

In both instances, the United States helped to bring about the transition to democracy and lessen the accompanying violence. The Reagan Administration's performance was applauded on all fronts, most notably in the liberal establishment which had been demanding U.S. intervention in the Philippines and Haiti for some time.

This is the same liberal establishment which has berated President Reagan for not taking a tougher stand with South Africa's government.

And, this is the same liberal establishment which blocks President Reagan's attempts to assist those people fighting under oppressive regimes in Nicaragua, Angola, Ethiopia and Mozambique.

Could it be the liberal establishment is blind in the left eye? Former United Nations Ambassador Jeanne Kirkpatrick examined this premise in her book, 'Dictatorships and Double Standards.'

Mrs. Kirkpatrick noted that while totalitarian or leftist regimes in most cases grow only more oppressive, autocratic or rightist governments eventually can give way to democratic principles. This is because autocratic governments incorporate some free market principles and have some measure of concern for the rights of its people.

The Philippines is a good example of an autocratic government that has given way to democratic principles, and for that, we celebrate with the Filipino people.

Angola is an example of a totalitarian government which so intimidates and oppresses its people, with no regard for human rights, that there is less likelihood of its giving way to democratic principles in the manner we witnessed in the Philippines.

It is a sad commentary that the liberal establishment in the U.S., particularly those liberals in the Congress, espouse a policy of non-interference by democratic countries in the interests of peoples living under totalitarian regimes, people like those in Angola who are victimized by Cuban and Soviet insurgency.

Fortunately, the people of the Philippines were in a situation where they could, for the most part, help themselves and control their own destiny, with a little help from their friends. Can you imagine what would happen if the people of Angola lay down in front of Cuban tanks and cannons as did the Filipino citizens? Do you think Cuban soldiers would act with the restraint of Marcos' troops?

Democratic ideas should be supported and encouraged wherever people do not have the right to freely choose their own destiny—with no exceptions.

JACKSON—Ghost stories and folk tales were once as widely known and repeated in Mississippi families as the latest plot twists of 'Dynasty' are now recounted.

Faded from Mississippi's collective memory are such mythic beings as the Bell Witch, Swift Peter, Graveyard Possums, and bizarre snakes.

Sitting on the front porch steps in the dark and swapping tales was a favorite summer pastime before television began replacing our stories.

How pallid the fear generated by 'The Twilight Zone' compared to the awesome horrors that filled the real night.

One generation warned the next that somewhere out there lurked a lightning-fast snake as thick as an eight-plait bullwhip. Like liquid steel, it uncoiled in the darkness to whip people, particularly little boys, to death.

Or, from out of nowhere, you could be hit by a heinous hoop snake which grasped his tail in his mouth and rolled forward at unimaginable speed dealing swift death with fangs like the razor teeth of a timber saw.

The hoop snake could even sting a tree and kill it.

And, of course, everyone knew that if you let a horse hair fall into a jar of water, overnight it would emerge as a snake. Cleaning a curry comb in a water trough would spawn a bed of vipers by dawn.

'Graveyard Possums' were scary things that roamed far beyond cemetery gates. Evil spirits inhabited them and you never knew when you tred a possum whether or not you had stumbled onto one that was possessed.

But hound dogs always knew. If, instead of snatching the possum, the dogs reared up on their hind legs and snapped at the night air, you had better get out of there.

Oh, to feel again the real, stark, palpable terror of the imagination that television images can never engender.

Swift Peter could make you feel it. He took several forms. Swift Peter was a bear that wandered about terrorizing livestock and people. On other nights he was a panther that rattled the house and shook the ground when he pounced nearby. (Every Mississippi county had a larger-than-life black panther).

A more fanciful Swift Peter was a dog with the teeth of a wolf, the speed of fox, and the color of a polar bear. The beast always tore up cats and dogs and small children.

The Bell Witch was the most famous ghost in Mississippi. It followed John Bell's family from Tennessee to Panola County, where it kicked up a lot of mischief.

The Bell Witch was the ghost of a mean overseer who had worked for John Bell and was murdered by John Bell, for cause, before the Civil War.

The ghost haunted the family for many generations and was still hanging around Tallahatchie County as late as the 1940s.

The Bell Witch exhibited his powers in various ways, from rough practical jokes to terrifying effects. People took it seriously and told about its pranks endlessly. Preachers even preached about it at camp meetings.

The bid theological argument centered on the phenomenon of the Bell Witch's drinking milk. Where did the milk go when the ghost swallowed it? Since you could see through the ghost, why couldn't you see the milk inside the ghost? The Bell Witch provided people a topic for imaginative debate for generations.

Other famous ghosts in Mississippi were at Waverly near Columbus, at Castalian Springs, Chapel of the Cross near Madison, and at Dunleith in Natchez.

Stories have been such a part of Mississippi history that the National Park Service has a marker on the Natchez Trace where 'old folks say the witches once gathered to dance.'

Historians say that Mississippi is especially rich in folk stories because it was largely an uneducated, self-contained, oral society.

Literary critics today speculate that the large number of contemporary writers produced by the state of Mississippi may, in part, be because of this oral tradition.

Let's keep the tradition alive. Dust off the old memory, pull out those stories, ask your granny for others. Let's start telling our children tales again.

The imagination needs nurturing as surely as the cognitive mind.

HOUSEKEEPING

A Weekly Summary Of Mississippi House Of Representatives

A new program to assist cities and counties in funding investments for economic development projects has been approved by the Mississippi House of Representatives on a convincing 122-0 vote.

The legislation, known as the Mississippi Business Investment Act, would authorize issuance of up to $100 million in bonds and provide for interest-free loans to cities and counties that meet eligibility criteria.

The loans would be used to finance improvements necessary to complement industrial investments by private companies and create new jobs for Mississippi citizens. It also would apply to port development projects and contractual agreements with federal departments.

Fiber should be a part of healthful diet, but should be added cautiously and in moderation.

This 'Matter of Health' was prepared in cooperation with gastroenterologists on staff at University Hospital at the University of Mississippi Medical Center—Mississippi's only health sciences campus.

Readers may suggest future topics by writing to 'Matters of Health,' the University of Mississippi Medical Center, 2500 North State Street, Jackson, Mississippi 39216-4505.

The loans would be used to finance improvements necessary to complement industrial investments by private companies and create new jobs for Mississippi citizens. It also would apply to port development projects and contractual agreements with federal departments.

The bill was among several economic development bills winning House approval last week as legislators continued wrestling with budget problems and a wide range of other issues.

Highlights included the approval of more than 50 appropriation bills, mostly at sharply reduced spending levels; an address by Governor Bill Allain dealing largely with state finances; and a rally by hundreds of university students and officials urging legislative support for higher education.

Major funding bills winning House passage included an overall allocation of $380 million for Medicaid, including $83.5 million in state funds; a $30.5 million general fund appropriation for state welfare programs; and more than $34 million in state money for vocational and technical education in the coming year. In most instances, the allocations for state agencies and departments were 11.5 percent or more below already-tight Legislative Budget Committee recommendations.

A bill to fund the state Highway Department ran into trouble when the House refused to allow its consideration on a deadline day. The bill still could be revived by a resolution to exempt it from the deadlines.

The House voted to amend homestead exemption laws, revising the method of calculating exemptions which backers said, when coupled with proposed changes in assessment ratios, would mean a tax break for most homeowners.

Other legislation approved by the House during the past week included bills to permit 10 counties in Northwest Mississippi impose a special one percent sales tax to fund four-lane of US-61 from Merigold to the Tennessee line; allow tax exemptions for certain companies under a proposed corporate headquarters incentive program; provide for tax increment financing districts within municipalities to aid in funding improvement projects; establish a new program to help cities and counties in the marketing of bonds for improvement of public facilities; and re-enact a wholesale tax on meat products.

A resolution was adopted encouraging the State Board of Education to consider a plan for implementing a health education program as part of the curriculum for elementary and secondary schools.

The hotly debated measures that failed to win House approval would have relaxed the requirement for passage of school bond issues, and reduced the size of the Legislature following the next federal census.

Matters of Health

FIBER: WHY YOUR DIET SHOULD INCLUDE IT

Q: Is it necessary to supplement my diet with bran or other fiber?

A: Before including additional forms of fiber in your diet, you should consult your physician.

Certain medical conditions can be aggravated by fiber, and eating large amounts can cause gastrointestinal tract complications in healthy individuals.

Fiber adds structure to plants, fruits and vegetables. Cellulose, which makes up the plant wall, is the most common fiber in plants. Other types of fiber include lignin, mucilages, polysaccharides, and pectins, which are found in fruit.

The human intestine is unable to digest cellulose and other plant fiber. Bacteria that normally reside in the intestinal tract accomplish this.

Fiber absorbs a considerable amount of water as it travels through the digestive tract. Some fiber soaks up several times its weight in liquid.

The colon - or the final section of the intestine - can't absorb all of the water and the result is softer, bulkier stools.

Constipation often is well controlled by periodic ingestion of bran and other fiber consisting mainly of cellulose. Several over-the-counter products that are used as laxatives, such as psyllium, are chiefly fiber.

Uncooked carrots, cabbage and apples help smooth the digestive process, also.

Fiber may lower the risk for heart disease by lowering the amount of fatty substances in the bloodstream.

Whole oats, carrots and other soluble fiber added to the diet appear to reduce cholesterol and triglyceride levels, both of which are associated with heart diseases.

Bran, an insoluble fiber, doesn't provide the right substance for lowering cholesterol and triglyceride levels.

If you need to increase your consumption of fiber, start with fruits and vegetables. A small amount of 100 percent bran cereal may help, but also may cause some initial discomfort a bloated feeling and increased flatulence or intestinal gases.

Fiber should be a part of healthful diet, but should be added cautiously and in moderation.

This 'Matter of Health' was prepared in cooperation with gastroenterologists on staff at University Hospital at the University of Mississippi Medical Center—Mississippi's only health sciences campus.

Readers may suggest future topics by writing to 'Matters of Health,' the University of Mississippi Medical Center, 2500 North State Street, Jackson, Mississippi 39216-4505.

Parents voice complaints to Hancock school board

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Several parents with students in Hancock County schools met Monday night with the board to air their grievances.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Necaise told the board about several recent problems involving a student's band instrument being vandalized.

Mrs. Necaise said to stop destruction of her son's instrument, it had been necessary to put a chain and lock on the horn case.

Superintendent Terrell Randolph said he had been aware of problems in the band hall. He also said that to prevent problems with instruments doors had been installed in the bandhall but they had repeatedly been destroyed.

The board told the Necaises that the problem would have to be handled by school officials and instructed Assistant Principal David Koph to investigate the incident.

Another problem presented to the board was the possibility of the elimination of the ninth grade basketball team at Hancock North Central High School.

Parent John Knight told the board his son, who had played eight grade basketball had been told that there would not be a ninth grade team and that he would be included in the varsity team.

Knight added that he had been given various reasons why there would not be a ninth grade team but could not verify them.

The board told Knight this was the first they had heard of the matter but that they were sure there would continue to be a ninth grade team.

Randolph reported late Wednesday that there had been a slight misunderstanding but that there definitely would be a team next year.

Also addressing the board was Ann Shiyou. Mrs. Shiyou told the board she had a complaint about the school bus driver who had ran over her stock dog and had let her daughter get off the bus at unauthorized places.

Randolph told Mrs. Shiyou that the incident had been investigated and the driver had been reprimanded.

When questioned about their responsibility for the dog that had been killed, the board told Mrs. Shiyou that it had been an accident and they could not replace the dog.

During the meeting School Board Member Lynette Necaise questioned Architect Fred Wagner about the cost of the six classroom addition.

"Reportedly the Bay St. Louis school district is getting eight classrooms for $45,000 less than we are getting six classrooms," Necaise said.

"I have done the building in the most economical way I know how," Wagner said.

He added that while the Bay had reported those prices, the cost of the project would be determined by the market prices and the final cost could be much higher than the estimate.

The bid opening date for the new classroom construction at Gulfview Elementary has been set for March 31.

In other business the board:

Authorized Wagner to prepare bid documents for repair of storm damaged roofing at Gulfview, to install a new roof at Hancock North Central Elementary and Junior High school and repair the senior high roof.

Approved the recommendation to employ Ruth Pedarre as substitute teacher at Charles B. Murphy Elementary for the remainder of the 1985-86 School Year.

Approved the recommendation to employ Augusta Price as janitorial substitute at Gulfview Elementary for the remainder of the 1985-86 School Year.

Approved the recommendation of Kathryn Carver and Becky McArthur as substitute cafeteria employees at Charles B. Murphy Elementary retroactive to Feb. 3.

Approved request for Jeannette Handshoe to attend the CASSP Region 3 Task Force Meeting retroactive to Feb. 21 in Hattiesburg.

Approved request for Rhea Scafide to attend the Mississippi School Food Service Association and the Mississippi Department of Education Nutrition Education Seminar on March 11 in Jackson.

Approved request for James Pair to attend the Spring Meeting of the Southern Education Consortium in Hattiesburg on April 11.

Approved request for Jeannette Handshoe to make a presentation at the Mississippi Organization of Special Education Services Spring Conference on April 17-18 in Jackson.

Approved request to release Faith Michelle Lundy, grade one, and Luke Dewayne Lundy, Kindergarten, from District to attend school in Poplarville School District for the 1986-87 School Year.

Approved request to lease Lot 47, Board of Supervisors Subdivision #2, Section 16-9-16, Hancock County, to Annette Starling for $140.00 per year for 25 years.

MATCHING FUNDS—Members of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors listen to a US Army Corps of Engineers proposal for an emergency repair study on the beachfront. Board of Supervisors President A.A. Kellar acknowledged that the long-range proposal would be beneficial to the county, but expressed reluctance to commit matching funds for a study he feels may not be usable because of federal budget cuts.

He called the investment of the matching funds "a very expensive gamble" and said it would be better for the county to have a guarantee of federal funding.

At the board's regular meeting Monday, the supervisors:

Approved the resignation of Board Attorney Walter Gex III, now a federal judge, and agreed to employ the firm of Gex, Gex and Phillips;

Re-appointed Supervisor James Travirca to the South Mississippi Planning and Development District Board of Directors;

Accepted the resignation of Fred Wagner from the Gulf Regional Planning Commission Board and appointed Lisa Coward as successor; and Agreed to readvertise for consultants on a block grant for a water system in Steep Hollow and Catahoula communities;

The board meets again at 9 a.m. on March 13.

Bay home raid nets one arrest

By ELLIS CUEVAS
County and Bay law enforcement officers confiscated approximately one pound of marijuana and arrested a Bay St. Louis resident Monday night.

Ronnie Peterson said, "Frederick W. Chase, 28, 200 St. George Street was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana during a raid of his residence."

A search warrant had been acquired from Justice Court Judge Joe Dobson prior to the raid conducted at approximately 8 p.m. Monday.

During the raid, Peterson stated, $890 in cash, a 12-gauge shotgun, and approximately one pound of marijuana were confiscated.

Chase was charged with possession, intent to sell or deliver, with a bond being set at $2,500 and is awaiting a preliminary hearing before a Justice Court judge, Peterson added.

The raid was conducted by Peterson, Alvin Ladner, Delbert Seay and Glen Strong, Hancock County criminal investigators; and David Murtagh Bay St. Louis detective. Ladner and Murtagh are in charge of the investigation.

HUD to solicit public comments on tenant management rules

Samuel R. Pierce Jr., secretary of Housing and Urban Development, has announced that HUD is seeking public comment on new, proposed regulations which encourage local housing authorities to increase participation by public housing residents in the operation and management of public housing developments.

"Tenant groups that have taken on the responsibility for managing their housing projects are showing that tenant involvement can be successful in improving living conditions and reducing operating costs," Pierce said.

"In developing the proposed rules, we tried to expand these opportunities and give public housing residents greater control over their lives," he added.

"In a number of cities, tenant management groups report success in working with their PHAs to increase rental income, reduce vacancy rates, improve property maintenance, and coordinate social services, such as day care centers," the HUD secretary added.

The new rules encourage public housing agencies (PHAs) to recognize tenant organizations, consult with these tenant groups, and contract with tenant management corporations (TMCs) to perform management functions.

Pierce noted that the rules would permit a PHA to provide technical assistance and financial incentives to tenant groups.

This could include allowing the tenant management corporation to retain and use all or a portion of the savings in operating expenses, or any increases in income to improve the development's property, maintenance, and services.

The rules were published in the Federal Register on Jan. 9, and comments will be received until March 10.

Waveland Civic slates Saturday ball, seeks parade entries

Waveland Civic Association, sponsor of the annual St. Patrick's Day Parade there, is seeking participants for the event.

Individuals or groups wishing to enter floats or marchers in the parade may contact James Lagasse Jr. at 467-4997 or David Garcia, 467-6463.

This year's event will feature some 150 members of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick marching group of Mobile, Ala.

The parade begins at 2 p.m. Saturday, March 15, at Waveland and Central avenues, traveling on Central to Coleman, down Coleman to Beach Boulevard, east on Beach to Lafitte, north on Lafitte to Central and west on Central, disbanding at the starting point.

Identities of the grand marshal and coqueen will be revealed Saturday, March 8, at the group's annual ball at the American Legion Hall in Waveland.

Ball tickets are sold out, according to Lagasse, association president.

Lounge removed from off limits list

Sportspage, Inc., doing business as Oscar's, 613 Central Beach Blvd., Biloxi, and formerly known as Amelia's, was removed from the off limits list by the Armed Forces Disciplinary Control Board at a formal meeting last Friday at Keesler Air Force Base.

The only remaining Biloxi establishments declared off limits to Keesler military members by the board are:

1. Fisherman's Hangout, 134 E. Bayview Ave.

2. Edgar's Lounge, 713 E. Howard Ave.

Off limits means any vehicle, conveyance, place, structure, building or area prohibited to military members' use. A change of ownership, management or name of any off limits establishment doesn't affect this restriction.

Representatives from Sportspage, Inc., appeared before the board Friday to explain changes in policy and personnel that had resulted in the board's earlier sanction.

Erodible land

Key Farm Bill provision to impact state cropland

A key provision of the 1985 farm bill could result in up to 500,000 acres of erodible cropland in Mississippi being taken out of production in the next five years.

The provision, the conservation reserve program, is a government effort to take 40 million acres of erodible U.S. cropland out of production during the 10-year life of the program.

Dr. Eddie Funderburg, an agronomist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said the measure is aimed at taking erodible land out of production and reducing agricultural surpluses.

"The conservation reserve will take some of this cropland out of production that really shouldn't be in production," Funderburg said.

Mississippi has about 1.5 million acres of erodible cropland eligible for the reserve. Funderburg said about 70,000 acres could be removed from production in 1986, and 400,000 to 500,000 acres from 1986 to 1990.

"I expect there will be a substantial amount of cropland taken out of production in areas outside the Delta," Funderburg said.

The measure could help the state in its battle against soil erosion. Mississippi has one of the highest erosion rates in the nation, losing an average of 10.6 tons of soil per acre each year.

Nationwide, the conservation reserve is scheduled to take a minimum of five million acres of erodible U.S. cropland out of production in 1986.

The exact acreage taken out of production depends on how farmers react to a novel approach in which they offer bids to take their erodible cropland out of production. Farmers will sign up for the bids annually during the next five years.

Funderburg said farmers interested in taking erodible cropland out of production will submit a bid to the government in which they agree not to plant crops in exchange for a payment specified in the bid.

"The government is not obligated to accept individual bids from farmers," Funderburg said. "Whether a particular bid is accepted depends on bids made by other farmers as well as on other factors."

Funderburg said the land's production potential will be a major factor in influencing an individual farmer's bid to take erodible cropland out of production.

Farmers who enter successful bids will receive the amount of their bids annually, but must agree not to plant annual crops on the land for the entire 10-year life of the program.

The conservation reserve applies only to eligible cropland already in production, as opposed to "sod-buster" provisions in the farm bill that impose penalties on farmers who put erodible land currently not in production into crop production.

To be eligible for the reserve, land must be eroding at twice the Soil Conservation Service tolerance level for erosion. That level is three to five tons per acre per year on most soils. The land also must have been in annual row crops for two years during the period from 1981 to 1985.

Land that has been removed from production in the last two years can be placed in the reserve, provided it meets other eligibility requirements, Funderburg said.

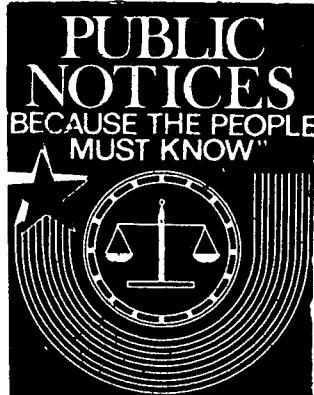

Farmers have the option to plant trees or pastures on land entered in the reserve. Any land planted to pastures cannot be grazed or cut for hay.

"Trees are a logical choice. It won't be long after the 10 years is up before a farmer can harvest trees," Funderburg said.

Financial help is available for farmers who agree to plant trees or pastures on land taken out of crop production and put into the reserve.

Several government agencies are involved in administering the program, including the Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Mississippi Forest Service and the Extension Service.

Farmers will have 10 days to sign up in 1986 in a period to be announced by the secretary of agriculture. The program is expected to be in place by early March.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, until 10:00 a.m. March 27, 1986, for providing for use by District 2 the following:

2 1/2 yards of clay gravel, 1/2 to be delivered at a time to allow for inspection.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Published by order of the Board of Supervisors dated this 27th day of February, 1986.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

The Hancock County School District will accept bids until 4:00 P.M., Friday, March 14, 1986 in the office of the Superintendent of Education, Stevens Airport, Hwy. 603, N. of I-10, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, for the following:

49' long, 10' wide, 4' high, 12 volt system, or equal.

All bids should be sealed and marked plainly on the outside of the envelope "BID ENCLOSED FOR TACHOGRAPHY".

Council seeks to do additional sewer work in annexed area

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council authorized the mayor to go ahead with plans to install sewer expansions in areas not included in the sewer project already underway.

The current sewer installation work is being funded with a $2.5 million loan from the Farmers' Home Administration.

Mayor Victor Franckiewicz Jr. told the council that he believes several of the areas where sewer lines are needed could be done with excess money from the FmHA loan.

The board authorized him to contact FmHA to see if the money allotted but not being used in the current project may be used to extend the lines into other areas.

The areas include a portion of Old Spanish Trail east from Suebe Street, Keller and 7th streets and a portion of Chiniche Street.

Extending sewer lines in these areas will cost an estimated $25,000 and add more than 20 customers.

Also at the meeting, Franckiewicz told the council grant funds on a 25-75 matching basis were available to the city for a study of the downtown waterfront area in Bay St. Louis.

Bureau of Marine Resources' Department of Wildlife Conservation is offering the funds for the Bay St. Louis Waterfront Study to seek methods to enhance public use, promote economic development and for conservation and preservation of the city's downtown waterfront.

The city will provide $7,500 of the $30,000 needed to do the study.

In other business the board:

Approved the issuance of $76,000 loan to the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District to purchase three new school buses.

Agreed to accept competitive proposals for contractors who were interested in grass cutting services for the city.

Denied a request from Glen Meranto to accept responsibility for damage done to his vehicle after hitting a large pothole on St. John Street.

Approved the appointment of Albert Sjostrom, of 103 Oak Dr., Bay St. Louis, to the Bay Board of Adjustment. Sjostrom's term will expire in August 1986.

MASTERPIECE ANNIVERSARY

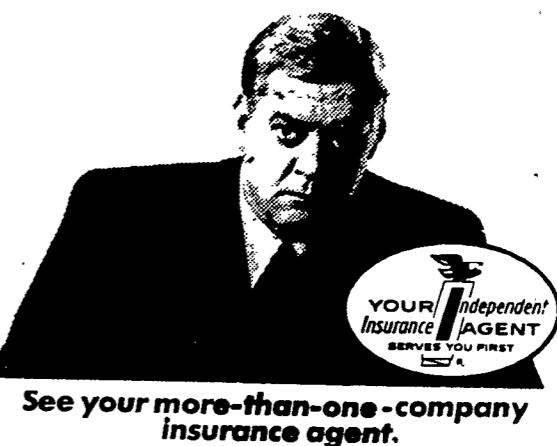

"Masterpiece Theatre" celebrates its 15th anniversary with a two-hour special saluting some of the series' most memorable stars and programs at 8 p.m., Sunday, March 9, on Mississippi ETV.

"Masterpiece Theatre—Fifteen Years" includes appearances by series host Alastair Cooke and actors Robin Ellis, Susan Hampshire, Jean Marsh, Frank Middlemass, Sverre Anker Ousdal, Tim Pigott-Smith, Diana Rigg, Janet Suzman, Nicol Williamson, Susan Wooldridge and others to be announced.

Patrick Watson, noted Canadian television interviewer and anchorman, hosts the black-tie gala, which was taped in the Grand Ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton in Boston.

Amidst the festive party atmosphere, Watson interviews the celebrity guests who reminisce about their "Masterpiece Theatre" roles.

Interspersed with the actors' comments are film clips of many of the dramatic highlights from the series in which the guest celebrities starred.

Hawks face Spring contest against Poplarville High Friday

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Hancock North Central Hawks will end spring training this week with a football game Friday at Pearl River Junior College.

Taking on Poplarville High School at 7:30 p.m., Hawk Coach Irvin Favre said he believes this game will be a "test situation."

"We have several new faces in starting positions and we are looking forward to finding out what they can do and what improvements we need to work on for next year," he said.

The Hawk team had 54 players participating in spring training, a few more players than in the past several seasons, Favre added.

Favre said although there are seven returning starters, four to five of them will be out with injuries this week.

"We will be putting a good team on

SSC Varsity Baseball Team defeats St. John, Mercy Cross

The 1986 St. Stanislaus varsity baseball team opened its season Saturday with a 10-6 win over the St. John Eagles at Rockachaw field.

St. John opened the scoring in the top of the first with 5 runs on 3 hits. Pitcher Mark Logan walked four batters, and the Rocks committed one error to aid St. John. The entire St. John roster batted around in the first inning.

But the Rocks came back with two runs of their own as Jay Artigues singled and Mark Logan walked. A passed ball advanced both runners. Philip Wittmann then sacrificed scoring Artigues, and David Pitalo followed with a single to score Logan.

The score remained 5-2 until the bottom of the fourth inning when Louis Schruff was safe on the second baseman's err.

Jake Welsh and Joe Welsh both singled, followed by Artigues' second single of the game.

At the end of four innings St. John maintained a 6-3 lead.

In the bottom of the fifth, Yasmin Shabazz led off with a walk, followed by Mark Logan's triple and Philip Wittmann's single. David Pitalo doubled and Jeff Reisch walked. Louis Schruff's sacrifice tied the score at 6-6 with two innings to play.

Mark Logan struck out two of the three batters he faced in the top of the sixth, but the Rocks exploded for four runs in the bottom of the sixth as Artigues, Shabazz, and Logan all singled.

Philip Wittmann was hit by a pitch, and David Pitalo collected his third hit of the game. William Scarborough struck out and Jake Welsh grounded out to the third baseman. Joe Welsh ended the inning with a fly out to left field.

St. John's batters were retired in a row in the top of the seventh to end the game with the Rocks claiming a 10-6 victory.

Last Tuesday, the Rocks entertained Mercy Cross from Biloxi in a 3:30 p.m. contest.

SSC opened the scoring in the bottom of the first inning when Jay Artigues walked. Yasmin Shabazz' fielders choice forced Artigues out at second.

Logan and Phil Wittmann then walked and Louis Schruff followed with a RBI single giving the Rocks a 2-0 lead. Jake Welsh popped out to first baseman Tim Williams to end the inning.

Mercy Cross bounced back in the third with 3 runs. Watson walked, and after Dellerenger struck out, Duvall walked and Meehan singled. Konce and Forbes both walked, and Silman's fielders choice scored Meehan putting Mercy Cross on top 3-2.

The Rockachaws bounced back with three runs in the third as Joe Welsh singled and was forced out by Artigues' fielders choice. Shabazz then walked and Logan singled in Artigues. Philip Wittmann's single scored Shabazz, and David Pitalo's fielders choice scored Logan to put the Rocks on top 6-3.

Mercy Cross could not mount an attack in the third inning, as winning pitcher David Pitalo settled down, giving up only three hits during the remainder of the game.

St. Stanislaus picked up an additional run in the bottom of the fourth inning when David Pitalo walked and Louis Schruff singled for the second time in the game. Jake Welsh's fielders choice scored pinch-runner Clinton Edwards to put the Rocks on top to stay 7-3.

Mercy Cross had one last chance to get back into the ballgame when in the top of the seventh inning the Crusaders had the bases loaded, but David Pitalo got speedster Jojo Koonce to weakly ground out to the pitcher to end the ballgame.

Thursday evening at 7 p.m., the Rocks will face the Bay High Tigers in a night game at the Bay High field.

GREAT DAY—Participating in 'A Great Day of Soccer' Saturday at Milner Stadium in Gulfport is Suzanna Cameron of Dynamite girls soccer team of Bay St. Louis. Members of more than 100 youth soccer teams on the Gulf Coast took part in the event sponsored by the Gulf Coast Coca-Cola Bottling Company in Gulfport. Award winners will be cited at a 7 p.m. presentation ceremony Friday at Gulfport High School.

Wildlife department's violation report line termed successful

Using the busy deer season as a measuring stick, the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation says the new toll-free phone number for reporting wildlife violations is a success in two ways.

First, it's "one of the best cooperative projects I've ever seen between an agency charged with the responsibility of caring for a wildlife resource and the public who uses that resource," said Lon Strong, MDWC executive director.

"The organizations involved in SMART (Sportsmen of Mississippi Acting Responsibly Together) have done something positive to help protect our wildlife and to promote ethical hunting," Strong explained.

"They're doing their part and we're doing ours, but we still need some help from the public."

"We need people to continue using the SMART-line and to report any wildlife violation they know about. It will take all of us to stop those who are stealing from legitimate sportsmen," stated Strong.

During the past deer season, the most frequently reported problems on the SMART-line were trespassing, roadhunting, and headlighting.

Established by sportsmen's and conservation groups, the number is helpful to officers trying to apprehend those violators.

"A number of cases have been made this year because of the SMART-line," said Phillip Strong, chief of law enforcement.

"Of course, there is no way to evaluate the complete effectiveness of the line or to measure the amount of wildlife that it has protected. It is as important as a deterrent as it is for letting us know about actual violations."

"Preventative measures like the SMART-line, high visibility, and the good reputation of an officer are, by far, our most effective law enforcement tools," Strong continued.

"People need to remember that the number is still in use, even though deer season is over," said Strong.

"We want people to use it to report illegal fishing, turkey baiting, night hunting, or any violation they might see or hear this spring and summer."

"Violators don't take vacations," he continued, "and we need help all year long."

The SMART-line number is 1-800-BE SMART (237-7278). The toll-free number is funded by the Mississippi Wildlife Federation, the Mississippi Bowhunters' Association, the Mississippi Chapter of the National Wild Turkey Federation, the 82 Conservation Associations, the Mississippi Trappers Association, the Mississippi BASS Federation, and the Marion County Wildlife Federation.

PACT WITH ARKANSAS

A new hunting and fishing agreement has been worked out between the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation and the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission, according to a spokesman with the DWC in Jackson.

The new reciprocal agreement recognizes resident hunting, sport fishing, and commercial fishing licenses of either state on lands and waters bordering Mississippi and Arkansas.

The new agreement lists the specific lakes on which both an Arkansas or Mississippi license will be honored by enforcement officers. It also lists lands where hunting licenses from both states are accepted.

Officials with the Department of Wildlife Conservation in Jackson say that fishermen using the waters listed in the agreement are to abide by Mississippi's laws and regulations.

They say that anglers who cross the Mississippi River to fish should remember that a Mississippi license is valid only in water that is either within Mississippi or on a body of water that has a state line running through it.

An agency spokesman said that several areas on the western side of the river that previously could be fished with a Mississippi license are no longer legal with that license.

Resident commercial fishermen of either state must abide by all laws and regulations governing mesh size, tagging, length limits, creel limits, trotlines, snagnails, and all other regulations of the state whose waters are being fished.

Mississippi licensed commercial fishermen should take note that certain waters west of the Mississippi River are no longer legal with a Mississippi license.

For a complete list of the lands and lakes covered by the new reciprocal agreement with Arkansas, hunters and fishermen should write the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation, P.O. Box 451, Jackson, MS 39205, or telephone 601/961-5300.

PRESIDENT'S COUNCIL

Elizabeth L. Raymond of Pearl has been named to serve on President Reagan's National Boating Safety Advisory Council.

The announcement was made on Feb. 19 by Elizabeth H. Dole, Secretary of Transportation.

Mrs. Raymond is director of the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation's boating safety division, and is the state's boating law administrator.

Mrs. Raymond is a graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi and a 1984 graduate of the Mississippi College School of Law.

She is president of the Southern States Boating Law Administrators Association, serving as chairman of that organization's education committee for the past four years.

Mrs. Raymond and other new reappointed members will be sworn in at the next meeting of the National Boating Safety Advisory Council at the group's meeting in mid-May in Virginia Beach, Va.

COAST ARTIST WINS

Joe Latil of Ocean Springs is the winner of this year's Mississippi State Waterfowl Stamp Art Competition.

Latil won the contest with a pair of American wigeon.

His score was 123 after the first round of judging. He finished the second round with 134 points.

Jerrie Glasper of Greenville was second and Bob Tompkins of Greenville was third.

Judges for this year's contest were Gary Walters, well-known Jackson artist and teacher, Richard Wells of Jackson, waterfowl biologist for the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation, and Lottie Fulton of Jackson, the winner of last year's Waterfowl Stamp Art Competition.

Bay Tigers split double-header

The Bay High School Tigers opened their baseball season Saturday by splitting a double-header with Gulfport.

Bay High lost the first game against Gulfport's defending State 5-A champions 11-0. The Tigers won the second game 10-3.

In the first game, Gulfport pitcher Ben Lee gave up hits to Tigers Matt Fairconnetue, Trace McRaney and Monty Strong.

The Tigers had seven hits in the second game, including a home run by Fairconnetue. Jeffery Smith had two hits in two times at bat.

Tigers Mutakabbir Shabazz, McRaney, Craig Breland and Strong had one hit each.

Shabazz contributed four runs batted in. Fairconnetue followed with three RBIs. Smith and Andrew Colins had one each.

Winning pitcher for the Tigers was McRaney. Breland opened the game as pitcher and pitched two innings.

The score by innings for the Tigers was 2-0-0-6-0-0-2. Gulfport's score by innings was 0-1-0-0-0-2.

The remaining games on the Bay High schedule include:

TIGHT NERVES

This materialistic age is often blamed for all our frustrated and nervous tension. While the person becomes tense and overwhelmed with anxiety, he is urged to train, exercise or rest from work. But it is a hard and poor remedy to follow when you are in a bind. Authorities in our field have found that nervousness creeps up on a person from the inside, and they usually blame outside conditions for causing these nervous tensions and even depression. Studies indicate that there is a physical reason for nervousness, that it can and often does result from an interrupted nerve supply to the body. Chiropractic examination can detect an interruption in the nerve supply and proper care will aid in restoring normal nerve function, your peace of mind, and vigorous health again.

SPORT HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The most common question asked of fitness center instructors is, "How do I begin my exercise program?" The answer to this question is quite simple: every individual must find a cardiovascular exercise that is enjoyable and at which he can achieve modest success. No one will continue with an exercise program if he continually meets with discomfort and defeat. Therefore, common sense tells you that to enjoy your exercise program, you must set realistic goals and make a commitment to attaining them. Remember, if you have been leading a sedentary life, you cannot expect to get into shape overnight.

In order to insure a safe and beneficial exercise program the following factors need to be considered:

• Medical Examination — This is key especially when you have a sedentary life-style and have not been exercising for the last 10 years.

• Frequency of Exercise — You should exercise at least three times a week, preferably four, to gain cardiovascular benefits.

• Intensity of Exercise — You must learn to monitor your intensity level by counting your heart rate, i.e., take your pulse at radial or carotid artery for ten seconds and multiply by six. You should exercise at between 65 to 85 percent of your maximum heart rate.

• Duration of Exercise — To gain maximum cardiovascular benefits, perform exercise for a minimum of 15 to 20 minutes.

• Progressiveness of Exercise — Exercise intensity must be light at first and gradually increase to more difficult levels in succeeding weeks.

• Rhythmic Exercise — Isometric exercises constrict blood flow and therefore are not recommended; rhythmic exercises such as, aerobics or walking, promote greater blood flow.

• Overload Principle — This principle states that in order to enhance one's cardiovascular endurance, one's muscles must be forced to perform more work than they normally do.

• Warm-Up Exercises — Warm-up exercises are highly effective in increasing the total blood circulation and the flow of oxygen to the working muscles.

• Cool-Down Exercises — Cool-down exercises allow the body to return slowly to its normal body functioning. An excellent cool-down can be achieved by taking a walk.

Each individual who undertakes an exercise program accepts responsibility for his own health and may expect to experience benefits such as increased vitality and a more meaningful life-style. Make the commitment today!

TOUR HIGHLIGHT—Among the highlights on the Bay-Waveland Garden Club's 1986 Bay St. Louis Tour to be conducted Thursday, March 27 in conjunction with the Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs 39th Annual Spring Pilgrimage is the Beachwood Hall mansion at 806 S. Beach Boulevard. Home of Messrs. Charles Gray and James Plauche, the structure was probably built in the early 1850s and remodeled to its current Greek Revival style in the late 1850s or early 1860s, according to Bay St. Louis architectural historian Fred Wagner. Beachwood Hall commands excellent views of the Mississippi Sound from its broad gallery, tall windows and spacious grounds which feature a handsome fountain and formal rose garden. A central hallway includes gracefully curved stairway. Present owners have furnished the rooms with heirlooms, Venetian crystal and bronze dore chandeliers, Louis XVI parlor furniture and bric-a-brac they have collected in travels around the world. The Gray-Plauche residence will be open during the tour from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. when refreshments will be served. (Bay-Waveland Garden Club photo)

Coast hospital offering smoking program

Smokenders program offers positive results. The stop smoking program now being offered by Gulf Coast Community Hospital has had a successful beginning.

Robert Herbers, respiratory therapist and facilitator for the internationally acclaimed Smokenders program completed the first group with 30 out of 32 "kicking the unhealthy habit."

The other two had to drop the program for legitimate reasons and plan to re-enroll.

Some city and state officials participated, business men and women, several employees, as well as retired couples that came together. A few individuals were recommended by their physicians.

Although Herbers takes the Smokenders program very seriously, he is an enthusiastic young man who injects enthusiasm, humor and motivation into his two hour sessions that meet one night a week for six weeks.

The group takes special care to make the participants supportive of one another and telephone calls throughout the week provide encouragement to "hang in there."

The final meeting/graduation party was held and certificates were presented to those who had learned to abstain. Herbers said it was a "very moving experience" for those smokers who never had the courage to lay the cigarettes down.

Introductory meeting is scheduled Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Gulf Oaks Hospital and Clinic (adjacent to the hospital) dining room, and the actual program will begin Tuesday, March 11, at 7 p.m.

The program is a proven, comprehensive and educational process that employs many powerful behavior modification insights. Detoxification is gradual, natural, and easily accomplished.

Patients referred to the program by physicians will be eligible for discount prices. Herbers says to "Join me, bring your cigarettes and light up" at the introductory meeting.

Investigator uses hypnosis to turn up clues

Criminal investigators these days are using hypnosis to uncover clues that might otherwise be unavailable, though a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision has limited the practice somewhat.

"In working on a crime, they say if you don't have solid leads in 48 hours, your problems are just beginning," said Columbia-Picayune district attorney investigator Mason Sistrunk Sr., referring to the rapid memory loss that occurs with most people after a 48-hour period of time.

Through hypnosis, witnesses are able to recall information that normally would be lost to them, Sistrunk told about 35 members of the University of Southern Mississippi Criminal Justice Association, at a recent association meeting in Hattiesburg.

"You don't always solve crimes by hypnosis, but it can be used to get some good clues," said the stout, salt-and-pepper-bearded sleuth, one of at least four criminal investigators in the state who use hypnosis as a tool to obtain leads in cases.

"The mind is an amazing computer. Everything you've ever felt, seen, heard or smelled is there. The job of law enforcement is to get to that," said Sistrunk, a 59-year-old Lumberton native who has about 15 years of law enforcement experience. Sistrunk first became interested in law enforcement through his coverage of the Lamar County Sheriff's Department while editor of a small-town weekly newspaper.

A 1985 U.S. Supreme Court decision, designed to prevent victims from being influenced by post-hypnotic suggestion, has limited the practice from being used in investigations, Sistrunk said, citing a recent case that was lost because hypnosis had been used on the victim.

"If we had the power the Supreme Court said we had, law enforcement would be a 'snap,'" said Sistrunk, noting that most of the people he had hypnotized were of no help to him, since the needed information was not there in the first place.

Sistrunk, who worked for Gulf Oil Corporation before his stint as a Lumberton newspaper owner and editor, said he hypnotized just about all the victims in Hattiesburg's West Side rapist case, before last year's Supreme Court ruling. Hypnosis was very effective for gaining information from victims of rape cases, he said.

The 15th Circuit district attorney investigator said he first became interested in hypnosis as an investigative tool reading literature about its use on the West Coast. He began to practice the technique after attending a Law Enforcement Hypnosis Institute, held during 1979 in Los Angeles and sponsored by the L.A. police department.

Sistrunk, who stresses that hypnosis is a technique that must be "practiced," said he hypnotizes witnesses through his voice by having them concentrate on an object—usually a ball-point pen. The subject then is asked to recall information in the second person. He said children often are hypnotized by television and adults can be hypnotized while driving by a road—particularly an interstate highway.

The most difficult aspect of the hypnotist's job is gaining the confidence of the person to be hypnotized, Sistrunk said. A person cannot be hypnotized if they are unwilling, he said, adding that persons with strong religious beliefs often refuse hypnosis.

Our Lady Academy students place second in state

Top high school science and mathematics students from throughout the state converged at Mississippi College recently for the 12th annual Mississippi Science and Mathematics Tournament. Students from the St. Stanislaus and Our Lady Academy attended the tournament.

St. Stanislaus H.S. students participating in the tournament included David Zanca, Jake Welch, Michael Yarborough, Edward Payne, Ken Lutsch, David Bourgeois, Stephen Montagnet, Joel Thunes and Josh Bowles.

Evelina Alcalen, Laura Hillman, Jill Powers, Aimee Schmidt, Michelle Plessala, Julie Schaefer, Kelly Kolodziej, Susan Burns and Dee Dee Strong represented OLA at the competition.

Hancock North Central students in the Math and Science Tournament were Helen Brittain, Roy Lee, Buffy Knight, Jacob Dupree, Mrs. Suzette

Burton, Steven Croll, Steven Stubbs, Troy Wickton, Bryan Supak and John Bilbo. Dupree received a certificate in physics and a scholarship.

The tournament, sponsored by the Mississippi College Departments of Science and Mathematics, recognizes students and their high schools for outstanding academic achievement in the two fields of study. This year's competition included over 1,550 students representing 180 different high schools in two days of intense competition.

Featuring both team and individual competition, the tournament offered approximately $75,000 in academic scholarships to Mississippi College. Individual competition included one-hour written exams in math, biology, chemistry and physics with each student allowed to compete in two of the four areas.

First place winners receive $1,000 scholarships, second place winners receive a $500 scholarship, while third place winners receive a $300 scholarship.

These scholarships are renewable providing the students maintain a high academic average.

Recognition certificates and $100 scholarships are given to the top ten percent in each division.

Team competition in the tournament is divided into two divisions depending on the science and math curriculum offered by the individual schools. The four-member teams competed in a quiz type format where questions were flashed on the screen and quick calculations and responses were required...All calculations were done with pencil and paper.

OLA scores in regional mathcounts competition

The four-student team of 7th and 8th grade students from Long Beach Junior High defeated seven other schools to win first place in the regional Mathcounts competition sponsored by the Mississippi Engineering Society on the Gulf Coast in February.

The team will advance to the State Mathcounts final competition to be held in Jackson on April 12.

The team composed of Ashley Irby, Lisa Raif, Byran Hunt and Michael McLendon and their coach, Sue Dye, will compete against six other regional winners and three wild-card teams in the State finals.

Second-place finish places the team in the running for a wild-card slot in the state finals.

Third through fifth-place trophies were won by the teams from Ocean Springs Junior High, Ocean Springs; Our Lady Academy, Bay St. Louis; and Michel Middle School, Biloxi.

Individual competition winners were Michael McLendon from Long Beach Junior High; Chris Thomas from d'Iberville Middle School, Biloxi; Robin North from Ocean Springs Junior High; Jennifer Keel from Our Lady Academy, Bay St. Louis; and Lisa Raif from Long Beach Junior High.

By advancing to the State finals, the members of the Long Beach Junior High team will compete for the opportunity of being members of the Mississippi Mathcounts team that will represent Mississippi in the national Mathcounts competition to be held at Washington, D.C. in May.

The Mississippi Mathcounts team will be comprised of the top five individual scorers in the state finals.

TOURNAMENT PARTICIPANTS—Students from Saint Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis participated in the 12th annual Mississippi Science and Mathematics Tournament held at Mississippi College on Feb. 6-7. The tournament, sponsored by the Mississippi College Departments of Science and Mathematics, recognized students and their high schools for outstanding academic achievement in science and mathematics. Over 1,500 students representing 180 different high schools participated. Pictured, left to right, are Jake Welch, Edward Payne, David Bourgeois, and Mike Yarborough.

ACADEMIC WINNERS—Our Lady Academy in Bay St. Louis captured second place honors in Division II in the 12th annual Mississippi Science and Mathematics Tournament hosted by Mississippi College. Team members receiving a plaque for their outstanding performance were, left to right, Jill Powers, Julie Schaefer, Evelina Alcalen and Laura Hillman. Making the presentation was Dr. John Legg, professor and head of the Chemistry Department at Mississippi College.

Bay High teachers learn 'Attitude is Catching'

'Attitudes Are Caught, Not Taught' was the theme of a recent seminar in the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District.

Basing their comments on Zig Zigler's book, 'I Can,' teachers emphasized to their colleagues the importance of positive thinking and professionalism in relationships with fellow teachers and with students.

Enthusiasm was stressed as the key difference between good teaching and superior teaching.

Stories and tapes of people who have overcome great adversity and setback to excel in their chosen professions were presented to the group, followed by an open discussion of ways teachers can help their students adopt more positive approaches to their studies.

The recurring theme throughout the seminar was, 'If teachers and school administrators possess a positive attitude and set positive examples, then students will also.'

To emphasize this theme, teachers at Bay High were presented a cake by Frank Ladner, principal. Written decoratively on the cake were these words: "Attitudes Are Caught, Not Taught."

St. Stanislaus hosts diocesan meeting

St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis recently hosted the Diocesan Teachers' Conference. This conference was sponsored by the department of education of the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi; and the meeting was attended by approximately 40 teachers from elementary and secondary schools throughout the diocese.

The presenter for this conference was Sister Loretta Carey from the Center for Justice and Peace Education at Fordham University. The theme was "Catholic Social Teachings: Challenge to Education."

The first general presentation for all teachers was centered on "Toward An Understanding of Structural Change." This was followed by small group discussions for the teachers.

A presentation for the secondary school educators stressed "a method of curriculum analysis and a lesson planning method to incorporate the teachers."

St. Stanislaus student named National Merit Finalist

Brother Celestine Algero, principal of St. Stanislaus High School, has announced that Jake Welsh has been named as a National Merit Finalist for the 1985-86 school session.

Merit finalists are among the highest scorers in each state on the 1985 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test and the National Merit Scholarship Test (PSAT/NMSQT) which was administered to more than one million students throughout the United States.

The finalists are distinguished as a select group who represent fewer than half of one percent of American high school seniors.

Welsh, the son of Dr. and Mrs. James P. Welsh Jr. of Bay St. Louis, is presently in his sixth year at St. Stanislaus.

He's got the beat

Bay High Tiger Pride Band first chair drummer Carl Major has made a name for himself in the music world this year by winning top honors throughout the state.

Major is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Major of Waveland and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Banderet of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Betty Baker of East Haven, Conn.

"His record of achievement as a percussionist is outstanding in itself, but even more impressive considering he is only 14 years of age and a freshman at Bay High," said Tiger Band director Lana Jones.

His accomplishments this year include:

—First chair, Mississippi All State Band Clinic, sponsored by the Mississippi Band Masters Association.

—Second chair, Gulf Coast Band Clinic, sponsored by the Gulf Coast Band Directors Association.

—Second Chair, University of Southern Mississippi All-South Honor Band for which students were selected from six southern states.

—Fourth chair, 1986 Mississippi Lions All State Band.

As a member of the 1986 Lions All State Band, Major will train with this international champion group this summer at Pearl River Junior College and perform in New Orleans in connection with the Lions International Parade and Convention.

He is a member of the National Honor Society, the yearbook staff, the school barbershop chorus group, the math and science team, and he is president of the French Honor Society.

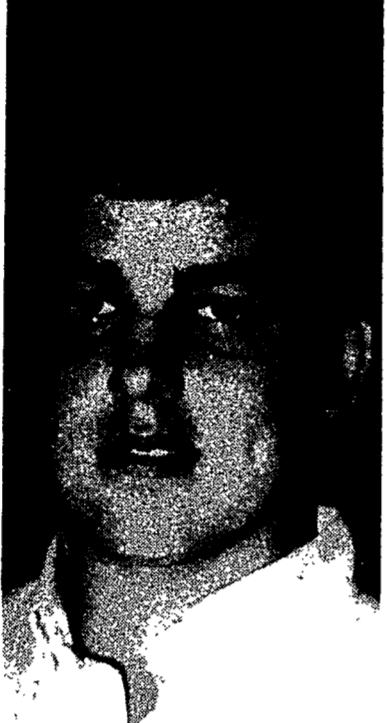

He has been a class officer in his sophomore, junior and senior years; and he participated in Project Do, a school service organization.

He competes in intramural football and soccer, and he is a member of the varsity baseball team.

As a junior he scored in the top 10 percent in the state in biology at the Math and Science Tournament in Clinton.

As a senior he scored in the top 10 percent in math at the same tournament.

Welsh hopes to pursue a career as an aeronautical engineer.

Co-op students work, study at MSU

Theodore L. Reehew and Michelle R. Van Peski, both of Bay St. Louis, and Ames E. Kerley of Kiln, are participating in the Cooperative Education Program at Mississippi State University.

As a major in the area of electrical engineering Kerley is working toward a BS degree and at the same time is working as a Co-op Student on alternating semesters in Jackson with Mississippi Power & Light Company. Also an EE major, Van Peski works alternating semesters at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi.

As a major in the area of professional golf management, Reehew is working toward a BS degree and at the same time is working as a Co-op Student on alternating semesters with Diamondhead Country Club.

The Cooperative Education Program is a five-year educational program which allows a student in various fields of accountancy, agriculture and home economics, arts and sciences, business and industry, education, engineering, and forestry to affiliate with a business, industrial, or governmental firm while enrolled at Mississippi State University.

By combining practical experience with theoretical training, this program provides the student with a superior education once all of the degree requirements are complete.

Elementary students hear energy conservation program

Dr. Carol Short of Starkville, Energy Consultant for the Mississippi State Cooperative Extension Service, recently presented a program on energy conservation to the upper elementary students of Coast Episcopal Schools.

Dr. Short spoke to the students about using energy wisely, where energy comes from, and how people waste energy.

She said that Americans are known as "energy gluttons" because they use an average of 300,000 BTUs per person as compared to the world average of 3000 BTUs.

The children were given an opportunity to compare objects for the amount of energy used and view a film on the History of Energy.

This program was arranged for Coast Episcopal Schools by Daney Jackson, the 4-H County Agent, and is partially funded by Mississippi Power Company.

Dr. Short also spoke to other schools on the Coast in Harrison and Jackson counties.

Science Teacher Jane Lamb said, as a follow up to this program, the students of Coast Episcopal Schools in grades four through six will take a field trip to the Mississippi Power generating plant.

Career change programs offered

Two programs on career change are being offered by the University of New Orleans in March:

A three-session seminar on "Career Change without Confusion and Panic" will be held on Thursdays, March 6, 13 and 20, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Glenn Schiro, a nationally certified career counselor, will explore such topics as re-careering today and tomorrow, planning career development, prospecting and networking for interviews, and salary negotiations. Fee is $40.

A one-day conference on "Retiring to a New Career" will be held Saturday, March 15, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Participants will look at the psychology of transitioning, researching a new livelihood and marketing themselves, 1986 style.

ALCOHOLICS DON'T SUFFER BY THEMSELVES...

THE WHOLE FAMILY SUFFERS.

It's not an unusual story. Take a successful individual who has everything going for him. Great family, promising career and life's daily problems he tries to solve with alcohol — and sometimes drugs. Eventually, his problems will grow to include chemical dependency. Can his family handle that?

What about the successful business woman? She's attractive, personable — and an alcoholic. Her favorite hobby — drinking martinis at lunch and after work. How long can she stay on top? Her home life as a wife and mother has already turned into a nightmare for her family.

ALCOHOLICS DON'T SUFFER ALONE.

At GULF OAKS HOSPITAL & CLINIC, chemical dependence is viewed as a family illness and recovery for the entire family is considered essential. If a family member or close friend is destroying their life by alcohol or drug indulgence, they need help. Professional medical help. At GULF OAKS, family involvement is an integral part of our program. Team members work with the family to help them understand the patient's problem as an illness.

DON'T SUFFER ALONE. HELP IS AVAILABLE — AND SO NEAR.

4-H News

By Daney Jackson
Extension 4-H Youth Agent

Volunteers needed to help 4-H

A 4-H volunteer can make 4-H available to more young people, and help your children and your neighbor's children have fun while they are learning important skills necessary for being successful — today, as well as when they are adults.

Through 4-H clubs young people can learn; how to accept himself or herself, how to achieve personal goals, how to work together to accomplish group goals, how to find useful information not just at school or library, how to assume responsibility for making our community and our country a better place to live and how to spend time in constructive ways and how to make decisions.

According to a recent nationwide survey of 1,100 volunteers, they felt that activities aimed at sharing knowledge and skills were of the most benefit to others, particularly those related to agricultural and homemaking practices.

Volunteers were interviewed from 288 randomly drawn United States counties, including eight counties in Mississippi. These volunteers work with Cooperative Extension programs such as 4-H.

Volunteers participate through one-to-one sharing, group teaching, coordinating projects and events, and preparing material. They also provide funds and facilities and serve on committees.

More than 80 percent of the volunteers share information with one to two others. About two-thirds participate in group teaching, such as holding workshops or teaching cooking or animal care to youth groups.

Most volunteers work on more than one task, with an average of seven tasks. About 10 percent of those interviewed take part in state or national level volunteer activities.

The county Extension Service here in Hancock County has opportunities for volunteers in the 4-H program. In 1985 more than 3,000 adults and teens served as volunteers in Mississippi 4-H programs.

In Hancock County, Mrs. Suzette Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Cuevas, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Farve, Mrs. Kay Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Lott, Sandra Moran, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Necaise, Mrs. Carl Smith, Virginia Toney, Joann Odom, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Ladner, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ainsworth and several others served as 4-H volunteers.

If you would like to make 4-H available to your children and your neighbors' children by being a 4-H Club Advisor or if you would like to help in some other way, contact Daney Jackson at 467-5456. The County Extension Staff will provide you with the training needed to have a successful 4-H club program.

Mississippi State University does not discriminate on the grounds of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, or handicap.

HANCOCK COUNTY 4-H Youth Agent Daney Taylor does housekeeping at the recent Dixie National Rodeo in Jackson.
